

In Sunday Morning worship have you ever wondered...

"Why do they do that?"

If so...this class may be for you:

"Fundamentals of Worship: Practice and Theology" (WS-500) is a three-credit graduate-level course that can also be audited. The focus is to understand what is Christian worship and 'why do they do that?' It will seek to explore the theological underpinnings of the community gathered for worship and study the elements of traditional and special services, including baptisms, weddings and funeral services and provide practical guidance for developing worship experiences for both congregation and leader.

This course will be taught by the Revs. Jonathan Lee and Donna Manocchio, Adjunct Professors of Liturgy, Worship and Spirituality and Pastors at Rocky Hill Congregational Church, UCC.

WS-500 carries three graduate level credits or may be audited. To register, please complete the form on the reverse side and return it with appropriate payment. For more information please call (860) 509-9512 or write us by email at admissions@hartsem.edu

Course Schedule: Wednesdays from 4:30 to 6:50 p.m., beginning September 10, 2008 at Hartford Seminary
